FRANCE'S POSITION.

The San Francisco Examiner says: The pedestal of the monument to Gambetta, in the Place du Carrousel, will contain this inscription, "Frenohmen, raise your souls and your resolution to the height of the perils which weigh on your native land. It yet depends upon you to show to the world the spectacle of a great people which will not perish."

It may be that the party to revenge in France will find in this inscription upon the monument of the great leader encouragement to persevere in their designs for the reconquest of Alsace and Lorraine and the humiliation of Germany. They may interpret this language in accordance with their own views and wishes, believing that the spectacle of a great people which will not perish is dependent upon the continuance of an immense standing army and the attainment of military glory.

But there is another interpretation which may be placed upon this language, and one which Leon Gambetta himself, if alive at this time, would, we think, be disposed to give them. The path of true glory for France, as for every nation, lies not across the battle-field slippery with the blood of the best and bravest of the nation, but along the ways of peace, of domestic industry and harmonious and systematical development. Were Gambetta at the head of affairs to-day, he would see this and appreciate it, and his presence would be sought in vain among those who make the streets of Paris resound to their cries of "On to Berlin," and "Revenge for Sedan."

Let us ask ourselves who can view the position of France dispassionately, what would be the surest guarantee for the continuance of peace? The answer must be, disarmament, and the sending of a half million of soldiers back to the arts of peace and the industrial vocations which they have been forced to abandon.

Such a proposition may seem absurd and chimerical, but it can be shown to be based on sound reason.

In the first place, France has to-day no enemies in the civilized world except of her own making. Germany, does any one say? If Germany is her enemy why does she not show it by some overt act? Does any one believe that if France had no greater army than the United States possesses Germany would invade her territory or seek to reduce her to the rank of a conquered province? On the contrary, so long as she does not molest Germany that country is well content to let things remain as they are.

It may well be that this disposition on the part of Germany does not proceed from any love for France, but because of a moral force which would antagonize any hostile movement on her part, and which is more effective than all the troops that France could muster. When Germany in 1871 had her mailed hand on the throat of France, it was only this moral force which compelled her to content herself with the retention of Alsace and Lorraine, to which she had at least the color of title, and with demanding a money indemnity. Unlike the first Napoleon, the Emperor and his Chancellors did not seek to make anew the map of Europe or to make France a trans-Rhenish province of Germany, although the power to do so was ample. Why? Because they well knew that the sentiment of the world would be against them, that sentiment which is more powerful than King or Kaiser, and before which thrones and dynasties totter and crumble.

The same sentiment exists to-day, and more strongly than then. Should France disband its army, except in so far as might be necessary for domestic use, Germany, were it disposed so to do, would not dare to march a battalion across the frontier, bent on conquest. The whole world would oppose such a movement, and Germany would not dare to set herself up against such a universal feeling.

For this reason, then, the party of revenge will undoubtedly err in its construction of the language we have quoted. The perils which weigh on the sunny lands of fair France are not to be met by the maintenance of an enormous army and navy, necessitating heavy taxation and crushing burdens on the people, but, by a just, prudent and wise administration of civil affairs, by the reduction of the expenses of Government, and by a development of the resources of the country. The perils of foreign invasion are wholly imaginary; the peril of misgovernment and maladministration of domestic affairs is always present.

France should take pattern from her sister republic, and put her trust in her inherent strength and in the patriotism and devotion of her people, rather than in standing armies, kept up at an enormous expense and which are practically valueless. The army of France is a constant menace to the peace of Europe; disband it, and France has nothing to fear. In that way, and in that only, can the world be made to witness the only spectacle of a great people and one that will never perish.

THE SON OF JOAQUIN MILLER.

Arrested for Horse-Stealing—Getting His Dishonest Traits Honestly.

On Saturday last the Grand Jury of Nevada county indicted a young man named Al. Miller for grand larceny. His crime was horse-stealing. The prisoner is a bright young fellow, not bad looking, and proves to be the son of Joaquin Miller, the "Poet of the Sierras." He excuses his thieving act on the ground of ill-treatment received from his father since the second marriage, "and," the telegraph adds, "he appears not to care now if he does bring disgrace upon his family."

A young man who will bring disgrace upon his parents is not deserving of pity, but there is some little excuse for young Miller, for, to all accounts, he comes honestly by his dishonest traits. In the days when Joaquin Miller roamed about the northern wilds, associating with Indians and chasing the nimble-footed deer and the vicious grizzly, he was by no means a saint. He made frequent trips to Oregon and Washington Territory upon hunting and trading expeditions, and while in Shasta and Siskiyou counties he was in the mines considerably. It is not upon record, however, that the sweet singer of the Sierras ever did much delving for the precious metal. His headquarters were at Shasta City. He was not a stranger to the county jail, and was once in that institution on a charge of horse-stealing himself. He had taken a horse from one of the mining camps and was captured with the animal in Shasta. How the poet escaped lynching has always been a mystery, for horse-stealing was one of the greatest crimes known on the mining-camp calendar. Miller was thrown into prison to await trial, but in some manner succeeded in escaping and made tracks for Oregon. It is probable that the authorities considered this a case of good riddance and never went after him.

He kept away from his old haunts until two or three years ago, when he slipped into Shasta and stopped at a hotel under an assumed name. He made frequent trips over the old mining grounds, and wrote some most interesting letters about the region to the Eastern press. He described Shasta's wonderful resources and did much good toward attracting the attention of homo and health-seekers to that neighborhood. This was enough to repay the country for the crime he had committed in his younger days.

Joaquin Miller, attired in neat black clothes, his hair falling in curls down over his shoulders, and a broad-brimmed cow-boy-styled hat upon his head, was sitting on the hotel porch one afternoon during his late visit to Shasta, looking out in the direction of old Mount Shasta, whose grand, snowy peaks he has charmingly painted in words, doubtless seeking inspiration for a new "poma."

An old man, dressed in the garb of a miner, had also been sitting on the porch, watching the poet as intently as that individual had been gazing upon the mountains. Finally he approached the long-haired stranger, laid his hand upon his shoulder, and asked: "Hain't you Joaquin Miller?" "Am," was the quiet reply.

"Well, I thought so," replied the minor, "and told the boys 'round here, but they wouldn't believe me, 'cause you've writ another name on the hotel book. But I knowed you jist as soon as I clapped eyes onto you."

The old man gave his name, and Miller bounded to his feet, grasped him by the hand and gave it a hearty shake. The old man was Miller's early-day companion, who had been with him in many of his wild escapades. The poet and the minor linked arms together and strolled away over the hills to talk over old times, and it was late at night before they reappeared at their lodgings.

AN UNHEALTHY NEWSPAPER TOWN.

The Eureka "Daily Sentinel" Sustains a Contented Review of Eureka Newspaper Experience—Unfortunate Opposition, Editors and Publishers.

The Enterprise says: George W. Cassidy, ex-Congressman and present United States Bank Commissioner, and also editor and part owner in the Eureka Daily Sentinel, announced most fearfully in Friday's issue of his paper that he can no longer publish a daily paper in a weekly town, and that henceforth it will only appear weekly.

The Sentinel was published as a daily for sixteen years and five months. It was first started as a weekly in 1870 by Dr. L. C. McKinney and A. Skillman, who is now a partner of Mr. Cassidy in the publication. Mr. Skillman was one of the first foremen on the Enterprise, by the way. The town of Eureka donated the publishers a lot and a shabby shanty for a publishing house. The material was brought from White Pine, the press having experienced several fires. It was warped, and made an impression like a spotted mulatto. "Aunt Hannah" (Hannah Curley), a noted pioneer of nearly every mining excitement on the coast from Downville to Pioche and Eureka, and who now lives in the latter place, advanced the publishers some $300 to pay for their freight. It was an unpromising a looking venture as any one ever saw. But it grew apace. Dr. McKinney was a fair writer, and Skillman a good business man, and it flourished so well that in April, 1871, it bloomed into a daily. In the Fall of 1871 George Cassidy bought out McKinney's interest, paying some $2,500 for it. In the Winter of 1872 Fred Elliot bought out Skillman's interest, and the firm then was Cassidy & Elliot. Cassidy soon after bought out Elliot. In 1874 or 1875 John Hancock Dennis bought a half interest of Cassidy and finally in 1877 A. Skillman bought out the interest of Dennis, and the firm has ever since been Cassidy & Skillman.

By the help of the Sentinel Mr. Cassidy worked himself to the State Senate twice, to Congress once, and finally to his present lucrative position under Uncle Sam. He also worked his partner, Skillman, into the neat, clean-cut little job of Internal Revenue Collector, though now, since the change in that office he is only a deputy.

Eureka has been the toughest place in the State for newspaper men—that is for those who had the temerity of conducting an opposition paper to the Sentinel, and owing to the unfortunate circumstances which have attended serious opposition. The opposition newspaper graveyard in Eureka consists of one publisher landed in prison, one editor killed, one wounded, five "busted," and of the latter one editor and two publishers run out of town.

Driving all these vicissitudes of the opposition, the Sentinel never experienced the least trouble. It is not on record where a writer on the Sentinel ever wore even a black eye, though things looked very blue once when E. P. Raines, a gentleman who is supposed to have dumped two bars of bullion from a ferryboat in San Francisco bay, and a very desperate man, was waiting around George W. Cassidy in the editorial sanctum with a young cannon in one hand and a baby sword in the other. The presence of a third party enabled Mr. Cassidy to get off with his scalp, and preserve the incident for publication, after, for these many years.

Messrs. Cassidy & Skillman have made a good paper of the Sentinel, better than the town justified, and Eureka county suffers a decided loss by the suspension of the daily.

The California State Fair.

The State Fair at Sacramento closed last Saturday night. It was a brilliant success from beginning to ending. No better one was ever held west of the Rocky Mountains. The sales of tickets to the Fair in 1886 and 1887 were as follows:

Pavilion, 1887, $12,220; Pavilion, 1886, $9,861 25; excess for 1887, $5,359 75; park, 1887, $14,395; park, 1886, $13,239 25, excess for 1887, $1,055 75; total excess for 1887, $6,414 50.

The foregoing figures only represent the daily receipts for admission. The receipts from the sale of privileges will swell the amounts to a big sum—estimated in the neighborhood of $8,000 in excess of last year. The receipts and disbursements of the Society for this year will be about $40,000.

Suicide in Salt-Ocean.

LONDON, September 25.—On the arrival of the Guion steamship State of Wisconsin at Queenstown, yesterday, it was reported that a gentleman, named Deworthy, aged 25 years, had committed suicide on Sunday last by jumping overboard. A life-buoy was thrown to him and fell so close that it struck him, but he swam away from it. The engines were stopped and the Wisconsin cruised around the spot for an hour and a half, but no trace of the man could be seen. Deworthy had a brother on board, and was conversing with him only a minute before he sprang overboard.

Napoleon's Remains.

PARIS, September 25.—The Gaieties charges that the tomb of Napoleon the Great has been desecrated and his remains spirited away. It concludes with some reservations concerning the exact truthfulness of the news received, but yet adds that it is a subject for official investigation.

John Chiatovich keeps his ten-stamp mill at Silver Peak going twenty-four hours each day without stopping except when it becomes necessary to clean up. Taken altogether the outlook is very encouraging.

The Mechanics' Fair of San Francisco this year appears to be a great success financially. The receipts before it was half over amounted in round numbers to $26,000, against $32,000 for the entire run of last season.

John Striker's mine, the Green Isle, in Hawthorne district, is showing up splendidly. John has done a vast amount of work in opening up this property and in a short time it is bound to do one more to the bullion producers of this district. So says the Esmeralda News.

After October 1st the Eureka Sentinel will suspend publication as a daily and weekly, until further notice, only appearing twice a week. The Sentinel is one of the best papers in the State, and its suspension is a daily will be a source of much regret. The JOURNAL hopes that the revival of mining interest in Eureka will bring the daily into existence, as the exchange list will be lost without it.

THE STATE FAIR.

The Interest Maintained in the Present Exhibition—The Attendance Increasing All the Time.

Yesterday was a gala day in Reno. Old Sol came out in all his splendor and the day had more the appearance of a slice of July than of Autumn. Every train brought in a new consignment of visitors and Reno was crowded with strangers representing every portion of the State. Nevada is doing her best this year demonstrating the fact that the agricultural interests of the battle born State is attracting some deserving attention. Our cereals and other productions rival those of our sister States and even residents of Nevada are surprised at the phenomenal strides that have been made by the grangers of this State. Heretofore but little interest has been manifested in the annual exhibit, our people seemingly regarding it as an occurrence necessary but one only to be looked upon by those who till the soil and pop the buckskin. Now everybody takes an interest in the grand exhibition, showing conclusively that gold and silver is not the only production in which our people take an interest. From morning until night the travel to the track was incessant, and the crowd at the grounds far exceeded that of any preceding day. Notable men were everywhere noticeable and the artisan and statesman could be seen together comparing notes and summing up the issues of the day. There is a sort of familiarity existing between the Nevadans and the line has never been drawn between the successful men of our State politically and those who support them at the polls. Here they mingle together unconscious of the fact that one is above the other, and all as with one voice eulogize the sagebrush State and its superior productions. It is this congeniality and interest that will sooner or later herald to the world that Nevada instead of being the State of sagebrush will be waving with golden grain and that the finest stock on the continent is produced under the shadows of the Sierra Nevada range in this State. Next year our exhibit will show decided improvement, and even older States where the plow has been polished by the soil for generations would be proud to make the same commendable exposition. To-day the agricultural interests of this State is "rocked in the cradle," but it is fast approaching that stage of maturity when it will be recognized as a giant in the world's productions. All old Nevadans are proud of the showing and all concur in the opinion that there is a brilliant future in store, for the heretofore Silver State.

The Pavilion is receiving its full share of attention nightly and the attendance will increase as the days pass by. Under the bright glow of electric light the magnificent display is shown up in all its grandeur and looks more like the underground grotto of fiction than a Nevada pavilion.

At the track yesterday there was an immense crowd. The grand stand was filled with people, and there were more buggies than ever before known.

The stock parade was grand, there being 111 head of cattle, and 70 head of horses. Governor Stanford's herd of Holsteins was greatly admired. So were the Vail, Crutcher and Scott cattle, and the Cleveland Bays, as well as the fine exhibits from the other states.

The ladies rode very gracefully, and were highly complimented. They ride again to-day, and jump the hurdles Friday.

The Indian pony race created the usual excitement. There were fourteen braves, and the mile was made in 2:03. They will ride again to-day.

The balloon ascension was a fizzle, but it will be a success to-day.

The mile dash was won by Lige Clark in 1:49 1/2, Mollie McShane second, Rook third. It was a pretty race.

The free for all trot was won by Wallace G., Victor taking second money, and Col. Hawkins third. The best time was 2:31 1/2.

The 3-minute class trot was won by Reno Belle taking the last three heats, Sparkle taking the first two. Best time 2:36.

To-day there will be a 3 in 5 trot between Mattie S., Jack and William P. There will be a three-eighths and repeat between Lookout and Sleepy Dick, a five-eighths between Lady B., Panama and Clara L., a seven-eighths between Lige Clark and the Idaho mare Avondale, and it is also probable a five-eighths dash between Alcatraz and Al Farrow.

The ladies will ride, the Indians will ride, the balloon will go up, and Carson and Reno will clasp hands over the bloody chasm. Go out and have a good time.

BUSINESS HOUSES TO CLOSE.—Henry Berry and C. W. Perry were around among our business men yesterday with a petition to close all our business houses from 10 A. M. until 6 P. M. to-day. They report that every man with out exception, consented to close their business houses to-day between the hours mentioned, and allow their employees to take in the fair. To-day Carson will close its houses and attend the fair en masse, and the Reno merchants will do likewise, and extend to the people of the Capital city a cordial welcome to the metropolis of Nevada.

Robbed.—Young Jim Fair lost $100 at Sacramento on Saturday night in a way which showed the desperation of the toughs in the grand round-up of fair week. Young Fair had won several hundred dollars at faro and turned from the table with $100 in five-dollar pieces in his hand. He was jostled and the coin fell to the floor. Instantly a dozen rounders and cheek guerrillas sprang for the money, and there was a great scramble, young Fair failing to recover one dollar of the money.

HAZEL KIRKE.

Another Great Hit.

The theatre was again crowded last night to see the Webster-Brady Co. The success of the previous evening was more than repeated, and the play scored another great hit. Geo. F. Webster appeared as "Dunstan Kirke," the old miller of Blackburn Mill. The part throughout was well sustained and acted. Wm. A. Brady as "Pittacus Greene," was seen to great advantage and sustained the very favorable reputation as the night before. Miss Charlotte Tittle as "Hazel Kirke," has a part exactly suited in which to display her strong emotional powers. Great praise is due to Miss Laura Biggar as "Dolly Dutton." Her assumption of this character is by far the best we have ever seen. Her songs in the first act were well received and merited the hearty encore. N. H. West as "Lord Travers," J. W. McConnell as "Amon Rodney," Geo. Y. Stevens as "Barney O'Flynn," and Miss Margaret Marshall as "Mercy Kirke," were all excellent as indeed were the balance of the company.

This evening "Lynwood, or the Blue and the Grey," will be produced here for the first time. This is a strong dramatic picture of the late war, without the noise and bluster of firearms and powder.

DEAD AND GONE.—Daisy Jamison is dead. This canine was not generally known in Nevada, but she was a buster all the same. No Reno boy ever lost a ball that Daisy did not do an important part in bringing to the surface again. She was at the prettiest brute in the world, but she possessed more than ordinary dog intelligence and did her part in this world much better than some human beings who look down upon the canine as something inferior. There will be no subscription solicited for a monument. Daisy requested this before she "defuncted." All the dogs in town attended the funeral and the dogology was rendered by a full choir. She now sleeps beneath the sagebrush awaiting the tooting of the resurrection horn.

A SCRAMBLE FOR COIN.—On Saturday night, says the Sacramento Bee, Jim Fair, son of the San Francisco millionaire, was playing faro in a second street fair of the "tiger," and succeeded in winning several hundred dollars. He put all the money in his pocket, except $100 in $5 pieces, which he held in his hand as he turned from the table. There was a large crowd present, and young Fair was jostled, the coin falling to the floor. Instantly there was a great scramble, the rounders and cheek guerrillas grabbing for the glittering coins, like urchins wrestling for pennies in the street. The young man who dropped the money did not have a dollar of it returned to him.

THE SILENCE.—The performance at the Theater Sunday night was one of the best of the kind that ever took place in Reno. Notwithstanding the criticism of the press the exhibition here was all that anyone could expect and no effort was made to deceive the public. To use a gambler's parlance it was all done "on the dead square," and satisfied everybody who attended. Another performance will be given next Sunday evening, and those who fail to take it in will miss a treat. Whether it be spirit or sleight of hand, it is interesting and well worth the price of admission.

ELMO SHALE.—The Silver State says the extensive shale deposits on the Humboldt river near Elko are being utilized. A lot of the shale has been taken west to Reno to be used as fuel in the furnace at the Reduction Works. The Independent says should it prove a success, an important industry may be opened up here in a material which heretofore has been considered of little consequence, although many of our citizens use it successfully in stoves which have a direct perpendicular outlet, that is, no elbows or horizontal pipe.

A FALSE IMPRESSION.—The impression seems to prevail in Paradise Valley that the Humboldt District Agricultural Society will not pay in premiums the $1,000 which the State allows the Society. It is difficult to conceive how such an impression got on or how any intelligent man can entertain such an idea. The Society will not only pay the amount which the State allows, but it offers nearly $4,000 besides in prizes and premiums. So says the Silver State.

BASEBALL AT TRUCKEE.—A very closely contested game of baseball was played at Truckee Sunday afternoon between the Red Stockings, of Sierra City, and the Truckee club, for $75 a side. At the end of the fifth inning the score stood 10 to 0 in favor of the Red Stockings. By hard work the Truckee nine won the game by a score of 12 to 11. Considerable money changed hands on the result.

TWO TRAINS DAILY.—For months the travel has been so heavy on the Central Pacific that the passenger trains east and west are run in two sections, one only a few minutes behind the other. Now, it is said, the company intends to run one of those sections ten or twelve hours behind the other, so that there will be two passenger trains each way daily. So says the Silver State.

ART NEEDLEWORK.—Miss Emma Gibbs has made an exhibit in the Pavilion consisting of everything requisite for fancy work, such as Roselle, arrasene, chenille, pompons, ribbons, floss, saxon, zephyr, yarn and materials for paper flowers. The young lady is deserving of praise for having made such a neat display.

Mrs. L. S. Bowcis, the Washoe secess, can be found at her rooms at the Reno Exchange. All those who desire to have their futures unveiled are now afforded an opportunity.

The Rocky Glen mine, at Grantsville, Nye county, has been bonded by Hayward and Hubert. The ledge is now over seven feet wide, and shows free gold and galena, assaying from $20 to $30 per ton.

Farmers at Big Meadows are about through threshing, and their granaries are pretty well filled. They had a bountiful harvest, and if they can dispose of their grain at a cent and a half a pound the business will be profitable.

Governor Zehak, of Arizona, granted a further respite of thirty days to John A. Johnson, sentenced to be hanged August 12th, and respite till September 23. His attorney promises to have proof to commute his sentence to imprisonment for life.

A Frankel Attachment Suits.

The Enterprise says: R. T. Brodek, of this city, has attached three lots situated near Golden Gate Park, in San Francisco, alleged to be belonging to L. B. Frankel & Co., on a claim of $3,300. The property attached is estimated to be worth about $600. The indebtedness grew out of business transactions of the firm with Mr. Brodek, in this city. The validity of the claim will revolve upon the questions of whether L. B. Frankel & Co. assigned all of their property for the benefit of their creditors, as shown in their schedule of assets, which is sworn to by them as correct.

THE SUBSCRIPTION.—Howlers are ever to whom it is due. Amos Alt did his duty to the dead, opened his purse, and is willing to embellish the grave of the dead man, and to do his part like a man. In the article that appeared in the JOURNAL Tuesday morning there was a disposition manifested to rob Mr. Alt of courtesies due him. Mr. Alt paid out of his own pocket the doctor's bill for treatment bestowed on "Spider" by Dr. Bergstein, and, though he desires no newspaper notoriety, is entitled to a fair consideration. If this is not the fact, refute it.

JUMBO DISTRICT.—The Evening Report says the Woods & Coffin mine, in Jumbo district, is said to have cut a four-foot ledge that assays $1,000 per ton. Pete Smith, the harness maker, and Prof. A. H. Willis, have located the north extension of the same vein, and feel sanguine of success. The Woods & Coffin shaft is down 55 feet, and Mr. Smith calculates to reach his ledge at about that depth next Spring.

BICYCLE RACE.—The bicycle race was won, Monday, by Claude Jackson. Charles Fassett, second; Louis Wintermaul, third; H. Upson, fourth, and Ed Graff, fifth. Time 1:27. Distance one-half mile.

Out of Luck.

We regret exceedingly to learn that Hon. James H. Sturtevant, formerly of Washoe Valley, a few days since had a chapter of experiences that must be very disheartening. At his fine hop farm near Ukiah, in Mendocino county, California, his hop kiln, which cost him $11,000, was burned to the ground. In the conflagration fifteen tons of hops which were being dried were also consumed. So far as we have learned there was no insurance, and this great loss must be endured by him without compensation. A day or two after the fire he took a horse to the blacksmith shop to be shod and was thrown down and so severely kicked in the head by the animal that he was unconscious for many hours. Letters were received yesterday stating that Mr. Sturtevant was much better—with strong hopes of his recovery. Jim is one of the best men that ever lived in Nevada and we are sorry to learn of his mishaps. It is pleasant to state, however, that he is still a man of substance with a fine farm, orchard, mansion, buildings, etc., which are of great value. Better luck to him hereafter. So says the Index-Union.

In a Bad Fix.

Jack Furlong, of Carson, is in a bad fix. He has been indicted in Placer county, California, for shooting deer out of season. After all his talk about bagging deer, says the Carson Appeal, he will be obliged to go on the stand and acknowledge that he never killed a deer in his life. The exposure will be pretty rough.

The Reno JOURNAL has enlarged, and gone the Gazette one better by making its columns a little longer and the same width.—Enterprise

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. (Ad. 91-law 5-1)

BEATS THE LOUISIANA LOTTERY.

For the next sixty days all those who purchase one dollar's worth of groceries at Havenor's Cash Store will receive a ticket in a drawing for a fine gold watch. This is certainly a liberal proposition and all groceries sold at this establishment are fresh and of the best quality, and are disposed of at the lowest retail price. All goods are warranted and if not as represented the purchase price will be refunded. Go and take your chances in the watch.

250 Beautiful Lots For Sale!

A RARE CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT AND A HOME

THE MOST LOVELY PORTION OF RENO.

Facing the Truckee—The Aristocratic Riverside Avenue Driveway—Splendid Sewerage—Healthy Location and Safe From Fire.

The proprietor is now ready to receive proposals for lots in Powning's Addition. The map gives a good idea of the Tract, which is situated between the Central Pacific Railroad and the Truckee River, and commences on the west at a point three blocks distant from Virginia Street, making it the most central and convenient of any portion of the rapidly growing town of Reno. Unlike any other part of the town this Addition faces the beautiful Truckee River and Riverside Avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide.
while Riverside and Keystone Avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is more safe from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect.

Before Buying Elsewhere Parties will do Well to Look at These Lots.

RENO

Has no equal in Nevada or California for salubrity of climate, wealth of soil, diversity of products and stability. Situated in the very heart of the celebrated Truckee Meadows the future of Reno is assured. Reno is the City of Homes. There is not a house to rent in Reno. New buildings are occupied as fast as erected.

Reno has advantages which no other town can equal.
The climate is mild and general in Winter, and even and healthful in Summer. There are no excessively heated or severely cold terms, and while the days may be warm in Summer the nights are deliciously cool; in Winter sleigh-riding is the exception and not the rule.

Facilities for irrigating surpass any in the State, and there is no failure of crops.

Reno has Churches of all denominations, Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls, Mt.
St. Mary's Academy, the State University, and splendid Public Schools.

The Reno Water Co. furnishes ample pure, cold water for all purposes. The Reno Electric Light Co.'s electric light system, already well established, is being aug-
